

Corrigendum to
“Evaluating the accuracy of gridded water resources reanalysis and evapotranspiration products for assessing water security in poorly gauged basins” published in Hydrol. Earth Syst. Sci., 26, 5899–5916, 2022

Elias Nkiaka¹, Robert G. Bryant¹, Joshua Ntjal², and Eliézer I. Biao³

¹Department of Geography, University of Sheffield, Sheffield S10 2TN, UK

²Department of Geography, University of Bonn, 53115 Bonn, Germany

³Laboratory of Applied Hydrology, University of Abomey-Calavi (UAC), Cotonou, Benin

Correspondence: Elias Nkiaka (e.nkiaka@sheffield.ac.uk)

Published: 5 December 2022

During manuscript preparation, a funder for this paper, the University of Sheffield Institutional Open Access Fund, was accidentally omitted from the financial support section. This has been corrected in the updated version below.

Financial support. This research has been supported by the Leverhulme Trust (award no. ECF-097-2020).

The article processing charges for this open-access publication were covered by the University of Sheffield Institutional Open Access Fund.