Thanks to the two referees for their detailed reviews and thanks to the authors for the detailed online replies!

Dear authors,

the requested revisions appear moderate, and I encourage careful preparation of the revised manuscript along the lines of the online replies, in particular to improve some of the review and discussion and placing of the contribution of this study into the growing (and somewhat confusing) body of drought indices as well as a number of clarifications.

Both referees will see the revised version of the paper again and I am also looking forward to seeing the revised manuscript before making the final decision.

Regards Kerstin
