The paper has received several critical but constructive comments, which the author has taken on in a positive spirit. Some of the criticisms, while valid, cannot be tackled fully at this stage of development of the field of socio-hydrology, and I am in agreement with the revisions that the author has agreed to do. Hopefully, the reviewers will be happy to engage the author some more if they are not satisfied - in the long term this is good for the paper and for the field, Siva
