The paper received two critical reviews. Both reviewers consider this paper to be suitable for publication after some minor/moderate revisions and I agree. The authors received a number of comments that will help to make the paper clearer, but none of the comments seems to be too critical and the authors should be able to rework the paper accordingly.

I invite the authors to submit a revised version of the paper together with a rebuttal in which they detail their revisions. I might send the paper out for review again (depending on the revisions).
