

This paper presents an interesting analysis of the global virtual water trade of food and feed crops. They use network analysis method to discuss the connectivity and vulnerability in food trade and feed trade. The methods are valid and the discussions are appropriate. In this case, I suggest it to be published as is.