

Interactive comment on “Estimation of surface depression storage capacity from surface roughness” by Mohamed A. M. Abd Elbasit et al.

Mohamed A. M. Abd Elbasit et al.

majed@just.edu.jo

Received and published: 30 March 2019

Cement and gypsum were used to seal the original soil surface so that depression storage can be separated from infiltration. This methodology has been used by several other researchers.

Interactive comment on Hydrol. Earth Syst. Sci. Discuss., <https://doi.org/10.5194/hess-2019-74>, 2019.