

Response

Dear Editors and Reviewers:

Thanks for giving us an opportunity to publish our manuscript in this journal. And the comments are very helpful for improving the expression and presentation of the research about raindrop size distribution in Complicated Mountain Terrain.

Please let us know if there is anything need to do during the minor review process.

Authors,

Sincerely.

Thanks for the recognition of the manuscript. We will continue to work on the series of researches. And this opportunity makes a lot of sense for us. If the article can be published, it will be the first one after I graduation. Finally, I would like to thank again for the valuable comments, which have made the article better.

Thanks for the advice. We have finished minor revision to this manuscript which makes the conclusion more rigorous and adds the more explanation of the site geographical condition. This article means something special to me. And I am so happy it has more improvement through the whole modification process. Finally, I would like to thank again for the reviewer.
